THE WEATHER

(ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

SIMLA, June 3.

The Arabian Sea monsoon extended up the west coast to Ratnagiri. It has again given fairly general rain over the peninsula. Bay monsoon has given nearly general rain in Burma, Assam, Bengal, Bihar, United Provinces, except southern oorder, and Punjab south-west.

The Chief amounts are:—Moulmein one and half inches; Toungoo and Myitkyina one; Akyab and Mandalay two; Maymyo one and half; Dhubri four; Cherrapunji two; Narayanganj, Saugor Island, Dinapur and Darbhanga one; Lucknow, Bareilly and Meerut one and half; Hyderabad, Kurnool, Karwar and Calicut one; Mangalore four.

Forecast:—Decrease of rain in the United Provinces, extension in south-west Punjab.

ADVENT OF THE MONSOON.

The Port Officer, Bombay, informs that the monsoon is setting in and a squally weather is threatening. Local Cautionary No. 3 instead of Distant Cautionary No. 1 has been ordered to be hoisted.

DAILY WEATHER REPORT

Summary of observations recorded at 8 hours on Saturday, the 2nd June 1917, giving data for the preceding 24 hours.

The Punjab.—Skies are clear or lightly clouded. Night temperature is generally in excess; day temperature is also above normal in the extreme north.

The United Provinces.—Skies are generally clear.

Sind and Rajputana.—Skies are lightly clouded in lower Sind and clear elsewhere. The air is damper than usual. Day temperature is in defect except in lower Sind; night temperature is normal.

Gujarat, Kathiawar and Central India West.—Skies are moderately clouded. Day temperature is generally in defect.

The Central Provinces.—Akola reports 0.92in. of rain and Nagpur 0.17in. Skies are clear in the northern half of the division and moderately clouded in the southern half. Humidity is normal or in excess. Temperature is in defect.

The Konkan.—Skies are lightly or moderately clouded.

The Bombay Deccan and Hyderabad.—Rainfall has been nearly general in the south Bombay Deccan and Hyderabad and local in the north Bombay Deccan; Ahmednagar has had 0.13in., Sholapur 1.72in., Bijapur 2.50in, Aurangabad 1.14in., Nizamabad 0.30in. and Hyderabad 0.22in. Skies are moderately or heavily clouded. Humidity is normal or in excess. Temperature is in defect at Sholapur, Nizamabad and Hyderabad.

General Remarks.—The monsoon from the Arabian Sea has extended northwards in the Peninsula; it has given nearly general rain in Malabar and the Deccan and local rain in the southern half of the Central Provinces and some showers in south-east Madras. The precipitation in the Konkan, however, is yet insignificant.

Nearly general rain is likely in Malabar, local rain in the Deccan and the Konkan and some showers in the Central Provinces.

STANDARD BAROMETER READING.

The following information is published in order that vessels in the Bombay Harbour may by comparison with a standard instrument ascertain the errors of their barometers:—

The reading of the Standard Barometer in the Colaba Observatory corrected for index error and reduced to 80 deg.F. and to the level of the tide at 8-45 a.m. Standard Time, on the 2nd June 1917 was 29.907 inches. For temperature corrections applicable to mercurial barometer of ships the reading of the ship's barometer has to be increased or decreased by 0.31 inch for every 5 degrees according as the temperature of the attached thermometer is respectively below or above 80 deg. F. In case of the aneroid no temperature correction is needed. But for comparison at 80 deg. F. all aneroid readings should be increased by .138 inch. For correcting the ship's barometer either mercurial or aneroid for the height of the barometer cistern above the tide level in the stream at 8-45 a.m., Standard Time, the ship's barometer reading should be increased by .010 inch for every 10 feet of the height to make it comparable with the observatory barometer reading given.

Royal Yakuti

(ANANG VILAS).

This Yakuti or life-giving nectar has been prepared from the best, choicest and richest vegetable drugs. It has a wonderful property of increasing the nerve power and is a specific for diseases. This valuable medicine is used in large quantities among Rajas, Maharajas, and many of our esteemed customers. But we have ventured to give it publication simply with a view to place it before the general public owing to the demand of several friends. It is needless to expatiate upon the magical qualities of our invaluable medicine. We would not like to blow the trumpet as is the fashion of the day, but suffice it to say that the use of this medicine is recommended to those who have any faith in the efficacy of Ayurvedic and Unani medicines. We recommend it also to those persons who desire to tone up the nervous system to strengthen the body, refresh the memory and to guard against debility. It works like a charm and the effect is lasting. It restores strength and it is enough to say that musk is not that which a perfumer admires, it is that which diffuses fragrance of its own accord. Price per tin containing 40 pills, Rupees ten only. Postage extra. No PARHEZ necessary.

The Shielding Shadow

THE GREAT SACRIFICE.

11TH EPISODE.

Fleeing from her husband and the hirelings of Bianca, Queen of the Underworld, Leontine and her mysterious protector, Ravengar, find a haven in a cottage in the woods where he leaves her and returns to search for the mantle which has been stolen by Ruggles. Ravengar falls from a ledge and Bianca and her men finding his unconscious body carry it to the shack where Leontine is hiding. Bianca seeking for some spirits to revive Ravengar, finds herself facing the shot gun in Leontine's hands. When she finds that Bianca is really trying to save him from the men who want his life she begs her to unlock the back door and let her go for help. This she does and Bianca, as Ravengar shows signs of returning consciousness, whispers to him to make a dash for the trap door when she opens it. With the gun she keeps them at bay until he makes the cellar and then joins him. Their shots fired at the two in the cellar failing to drive them out, they resort to a stick of dynamite. Bianca bravely picks it up and carries it upstairs but not in time to save herself. It explodes and Bianca makes the great sacrifice for the man she loved.

(From our commercial correspondent.)

BOMBAY, June 2.

Average condition of the American Crop for May for the past 10 years.

Year.	Average condition.
1917	69.5
1916	77.5
1915	80.0
1914	74.3
1913	79.1
1912	78.9
1911	87.8
1910	82.0
1909	81.1
1908	79.7
1907	79.5
Average of 10 years.	79.1

The Bureau Report to hand to-day gives the very low average condition of 69.5 per cent. From the above table it will be seen that 79.1 per cent. is the ten-year average for the month of May Beyond showing that the crop has made a very bad start, and that the plants for some time will be much more susceptible to unfavourable weather, the average condition of 69.5 for May means little. We have seen (in 1914) a May condition of 74.3 produce the largest crop on record; while on another occasion ((in 1909) a May condition of 81.1 produced a poor crop of under eleven million bales. We do not therefore set much store on the May condition any season. Until August or September it will not be possible to gauge the yield at all accurately. This season, as a large crop is absolutely essential, it is a great pity the crop has had so bad a start, as this will naturally make the market more nervous later on unless the weather is ideal.

The local market opened strong owing to the Bureau Report being considered very bullish. Fine Broach July was quoted Rs. 475/6 and Fine Bengal July Rs. 360. Fine Broach July touched Rs. 480, but declined to Rs. 475 at the close. Southern descriptions were firmer and closed as under. A fair business has been done in old crop contracts during the day. New crops have been irregular, the closing rate for Good Broach April being Rs. 452.

For ready cotton the demand has been good and higher prices have been paid all round. Japanese export houses and mills have bought.

The market closes firm as under and prices have advanced owing to a good demand.

Government Paper three and a half per cent. was quoted at Rs. 66-6 to 66-14 and small lots were done at Rs. 66 to 66-4.

SILVER MARKET.

MESSRS. MONTAGU'S REPORT.

Messrs. Samuel Montagu and Co., in their circular dated 26th April, 1917, state:—

The Bank of England Gold reserve against its note issue shows an increase of £137,765, as compared with last week's return.

Another week has passed without any gold having been sent from Canada to New York—on the other hand about $3,500,000 were engaged in New York for shipment mainly for Japan.

In an address delivered at Chicago on April 7th, Mr. Paul Warburg, Vice-Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, remarked as follows:—

"Under the particular circumstances in which we enter the war, the financial aid that our country will be able to render will be one of our important contributions, and I have no doubt that in whatever way our Government will finally decide to appeal to the American investor he will respond with an alacrity and in a spirit that will astound the world.

It is a profound satisfaction to all of us to know that never before was this country financially as strong and as well prepared as it is to-day. During the past few years our gold holdings have increased by 57 per cent. from $1,900,000,000 to about $3,000,000,000. In addition, as you are well aware, we have improved our position as against other nations by repurchasing our own securities and making foreign loans to an amount approaching $5,000,000,000."

SILVER.

The market has shown considerable steadiness at a somewhat higher level.

The outstanding feature continues to be the scantiness of supplies, rather than pressure to buy.

The Shanghai exchange has risen in sympathy with the price of silver and sales from that quarter are not reported.

Although reports show that there is likely to be an increased activity in the mining industry of Mexico, it does not follow that much silver will come on offer from that country. The details as to Mexican coinage given last week suggest that considerable demands will be made for that purpose upon the local output.

The Indian Currency figures recorded below in lakhs of rupees show a reduction of 45 lakhs in the Treasury holding. This is the third successive week that the total has shrunk and is the lowest since February 7th last.

Notes in Circulation, 8,410, April 7; 8,447, April 15; 8,340, April 22.

Reserve in silver coin and bullion, 1,736, April 7; 1,674, April 15; 1,629, April 22.

Gold coin and bullion in India, 1,158, April 7; 1,219, April 15; 1,156, April 22.

Gold in England, 667, April 7; 592, April 15; 592, April 22.

The stock in Bombay consists of 1,500 bars, as compared with 1,700 bars last week.

BRITISH TRADE IN MARCH.

The Board of Trade returns for March—which for obvious reasons have come out nearly three weeks later than in normal times and are much condensed—are surprisingly good as regards the import figures, and not unsatisfactory as regards the exports, considering the operations of enemy submarines. The imports, at £81,114,045, exceed those of February by £10,166,144 and those of March, 1915, by £5,651,996, but compared with those of March, 1916, they show a decrease of £5,001,824. The exports, at £44,111,131, are greater than in any of the three periods, the increase on 1916 being £6,513,012, and on 1915 £13,935,065. The excess of imports over exports, however—a very important matter in a time of war,—continues very large, apart from Government imports of munitions, which are not included in these returns. It must also be remembered that, owing to the rise in prices, increases in values are very often associated with decreases in quantities. Below we give a table showing the imports and exports for the last eight months:—

	Imports. £	Exports. £	Imports excess. £
March	81,114,045	44,111,131	37,002,914
February	70,947,901	37,287,486	33,660,415
January	90,565,311	46,860,542	43,704,769
December	75,406,306	39,928,460	35,447,846
November	88,922,506	42,488,254	46,434,252
October	81,135,376	44,715,248	36,420,128
September	77,488,368	43,477,677	34,010,691
August	76,116,834	47,720,323	28,396,511

THE COTTON TRADE.

No particulars of the destinations of any of our exports are given this month. We suppose it must be taken that the omission is necessary, lest any of the facts disclosed should give comfort to the enemy, but it is not likely he will derive much satisfaction from the figures that are given. Raw cotton imports show a decline in value of £2,997,607 as compared with 1916, and £927,232 as compared with 1915. The quantity was 1,305,942 centals of 100lb., as compared with 2,782,541 in 1916 and 3,546,259 in 1915. The figures for the quarter are less unfavourable than this, the total being 5,358,842 centals, as against 6,999,127 in 1916 and 9,734,352 in 1915. Higher prices this year are, of course, the explanation of the apparent disparity between these sets of figures.

Yarns and textile fabrics are £3,156,139 more than in 1916 and £5,232,526 more than in 1915. Yarns, although valued at £400,000 more than last year, show a decrease of 2,500,000lb., but in piece goods there is an increase in the yardage as well as in values, the total being 444,327,500 yards, as against 424,729,500 in 1916 and 352,435,100 in 1915. These figures, we should imagine, will surprise many people, although they largely represent a trade which was done on the Exchange before March. Grey cloth again comes out badly in the comparison with previous years—98,315,300 yards, as against 123,596,000 in 1916 and 146,028,600 in 1915.—but bleached and dyed cloths show increases of 24,000,000 and 15,000,000 yards respectively, and prints, at 77,772,500 yards, an increase of 5,000,000. The figures for the quarter appear in our tables.

WOOLLENS, COAL AND IRON.

Woollen goods exports are relatively just as good as those relating to cotton, the total showing an increase of £3,228,841 on 1916 and £6,702,879 on 1915. This trade has, however, been specially fostered by the Government, as far as circumstances permitted, in the interest of exchange rates. The quantities are a little smaller than last year, but they are decidedly better than in 1915. Coal, coke, and manufactured fuel are £519,373 more than last year, but the weight is 256,000 tons less; prices, of course, have been higher. Iron and steel show a decline of £137,272 but machinery is up to the extent of £444,643.

Other increases in exports are small in number, but they include £305,478 in oil seeds, nuts, &c., and £241,596 in textiles other than cotton, wool, and silk. Food, drink, and tobacco exports in the aggregate are £420,744 less than last year, raw materials (including coal) £848,951 more, and manufactured articles £5,439,762 more.

THE IMPORTS.

Food, drink, and tobacco imports show an increase of £663,379 on last year and £5,662,023 on 1915, raw materials a decline of £2,632,296 from last year, and manufactured articles a decline of £2,834,523. After cotton the most noticeable decreases are £1,098,727 in wool, £1,237,265 in wood and timber, £328,106 in iron and steel, and £614,046 in other metals. The increases include £2,359,128 in non-dutiable food and drink, £1,188,786 in oil seeds, nuts, &c., and £641,534 in leather and leather manufactures.

Grain and flour are £162,417 less than last year, but £2,191,420 more than in 1915. No particulars of quantities are given, for a reason which will be readily understood. Tobacco imports fell off in value by more than one-third as compared with last year and more than one-half as compared with 1915. No sugar figures are given, and there are no bullion figures this month.

GRASP NOW
THE NEW OPPORTUNITY

For the most fascinating and absorbing entertainment—
And at the same time to win one or more of the 75 Prizes.

HERE'S THE JUDGMENT OF THE PRESS.

"The cinema-loving public have before them a serial dramatised by the famous Author of the "Exploits of Elaine" and the 'Perils of Pauline' . . . . there is no question about its entertaining qualities. In addition to having an original and convincing plot, its acting is so weird, intense and compelling as to make it a play of tremendous mystery. . . . . These plots and counter-plots furnish a series of thrills, mystery and romance. . . . . Further attraction lies in the fact that the Olympia management have decided to distribute 75 libera prizes in War Loan Bonds and Postal Cash Certificates among the spectators of a serial which must already have cost a good deal."

EDUCATIONAL CONFERENCE, BOMBAY.

FOURTH BULLETIN.

The Honorary Secretaries of the above Conference have issued the following circular for the information of ladies and gentlemen attending the Conference as delegates:—

Since the last circular was issued the Executive Committee has fixed the sittings of the Conference for Saturday the 30th June and Sunday and Monday the 1st and 2nd July next. As already announced the Conference is to be presided over by Sir Narayanrao G. Chandavarkar Kt., a distinguished educationist and an Ex-Vice Chancellor of the University of Bombay. The sittings of the Conference will take place in the Convocation Hall of the University.

The Executive Committee by a special resolution at its meeting held in April last congratulated Mr. Chimanlal L. Setalvad a member of the Committee on the honour conferred on him by the Bombay Government in appointing him Vice Chancellor of the University. Mr. Setalvad has from the very beginning taken a keen interest in organising this Conference and his help and guidance have always been very valuable.

Nearly one hundred public bodies and associations interested in the progress and improvement of education in this Presidency have been invited to send delegates to the Conference and it is expected that a large number of ladies and gentlemen who have made the cause of education their own will contribute towards making the Conference a success by attending as delegates. Every delegate who is not a member of the General Committee of this Conference will pay a fee of Re. 1-0-0. Members of the General Committee will be admitted to the sittings of the Conference without any payment. Arrangements for board and residence for delegates and members coming from up-country to attend the Conference will be made by the Executive Committee and those desirous of availing themselves of such arrangements are requested to communicate with the undersigned at the above mentioned address.

SIR SHAPOORJI BROACHA AND THE HON. MEMBERS.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE CHRONICLE."

Sir,—Sir Shapoorji Broacha in his speech in the Sharebrokers' Association took to task the members of H. E. the Viceroy's Legislative Council, for congratulating Sir William Meyer, on his sound financial policy. He condemns the Finance Member for his lack of courage and imagination, and charges him with having brought about the ruin of the export trade of India. It is easy to attack persons and individuals and frighten them with curses of the trading community and so on. But, it is difficult to ignore veterans like Mr. Wacha, who has shown by an array of marvellous trade statistics, that Sir Shapoorji has blundered in trotting out the "ruin" of our export trade, as an evidence to show the mischief done by the exchange policy of Sir W. Meyer. But, I would like to expose another serious mistake committed by Sir S. Broacha. I will quote his very words. He said:—

"The Finance Minister and his lieutenants invited conferences to find safety in a multitude of counsellers. Mr. Gubbay in early Christmas had to run to Bombay. At the end of Christmas and the beginning of the year they had a conference in Calcutta. They spoke ruefully of the immense drawings; told us about the Government of England at the time owing something like 30 or 35 millions sterling to India. With a minor key they spoke about getting out money from England to help the Stock Exchanges in India. They, however, proved to be wrong as infinitely more money from Stock Exchanges was remitted to England than from England to India. But were they correct in informing these counsellers as to the exact and true situation in India? Did they tell the counsellers that at the time a very prosperous budget was coming and that the Government of India had offered to the Home Government a free gift of 100 millions? Deducting 30 or 40 millions England owed to India, there would have still left to remit 60 millions sterling to England; and another 20 millions to be remitted during the year for ways and means in England. If the peace were to be made now, the Finance Minister would have been in difficulty as to how to remit so much. Would he have commandeered the private remittances?"

What does it matter even if the peace be signed to-day? The Finance Member never said that he would send £100 million in cash. He was clear when he said that the Indian Government would pay to the Imperial Government £10 million, the amount they expected to raise from the loan, the rest of the amount was to be transferred from British War Debt to be taken over by India, interest only to be paid on the same. Whence, then, is the cause of anxiety expressed by Sir Shapoorji about the "difficulty to remit so much." There is no question of any big remittances, much less to bother, whether Sir William Meyer "would have commandeered the private remittances."

Hoping that Sir Shapoorji will see that his attack on the Finance Member as well as on the Hon. Members, was uncalled for and misleading as to the true facts of the case.—Yours, etc.,

VITHALDAS K. BHUTA.

LORD MORLEY SCHOLARSHIPS.

The Seva Sadan Society offers two scholarships of Rs. 17 each per month out of the interest of the Morley Memorial Fund (raised by the late Mr. B. M. Malabari) to any two ladies who have matriculated or are studying in a college, to enable them to prosecute collegiate studies or to pursue a post-graduate course. The Scholarship shall be tenable ordinarily for a year but it may be continued if it is found that the scholar has been prosecuting her studies with due diligence and is otherwise deserving of its continuance. Applications to be sent in by the 30th June 1917, to the Secretary, Seva Sadan, Gamdevi Road, Bombay.

LORD PENTLAND'S EIRENICON

"HOPE NOT LEST YE DISPAIR."

The "Indian Social Reformer" writes:—His Excellency the Governor of Madras brought the proceedings of the last meeting of the provincial Legislative Council to a close with a speech which has produced considerable excitement in the public mind all over the country. We referred last week to that part of it which referred to the recent order of the Madras Government prohibiting school as well as college students from even attending political meetings and meetings to be addressed by speakers who are not approved of by the Educational Department. We will only say here that Lord Pentland was exceedingly ill-informed in his statement that his Government has the support not only of the educationists but of the general body of public opinion, if by "educationists" and "public opinion," his Excellency meant Indian educationists and Indian public opinion. Of course, Englishmen, who form the bulk of the Indian Educational Service, are bound, whatever their private opinion may be, to endorse the action of Government, and they can also foster among their Indian subordinates a sort of public opinion in favour of such action. But if there is any appreciable number of Indians, educationists or public men, who regard the order of the Madras Government as anything but a dangerous and provocative measure, we should be glad to know their names and standing in educational and in public life. Let us again say that nobody takes exception to the order so far as it relates to students joining political associations or otherwise taking active part in political movements. Exception is taken only to the other inhibitions of the order, which are calculated to jeopardize the character and careers of Indian youth by placing them at the mercy of the irresponsible spy and the often unintelligent detective. We are glad that Indian public opinion, both in and out of Madras, has expressed itself in a manner which must convince his Excellency that he has been grievously misinformed. We need hardly assure our readers that the "Reformer" is not predisposed to take an alarmist view of administrative measures, but we must repeat that we view this order with very great concern as being calculated—though, of course, thoroughly well-meant—to promote secret movements among the student population.

Lord Pentland referred next to some projects of legislation relating to municipalities and local boards which his Government were preparing, and exhorted Indians to qualify themselves for larger political privileges by applying themselves assiduously to the work of local self-government. While we agree that local self-government is a valuable school of public life, we do not by any means think that it is the sole or an indispensable preparation for a public career. The Marquis of Crewe who has accepted the Chairmanship of the London County Council held office in many Cabinets, no doubt, but neither Mr. Lloyd George nor Mr. Asquith ever served, so far as we are aware, in the London or any other County Council. Lord Rosebery and Mr. Chamberlain had experience of municipal administration but it does not follow that they were greater statesmen than Disraeli and Gladstone who had none. It is no good making a shibboleth of these things. As for the contemplated reforms themselves, one of them seems to be to remodel the Madras Corporation on the lines of the Bombay one, with a titular head elected by the members, and a de facto one in the shape of a Government official. Even Sir Pherozeshah Mehta, who never completely overcame the sort of parental partiality he cherished for this system, had to realise that it had elements in it antagonistic to the growth of local self-government. We have never concealed our opinion that the praise of the Bombay system is being overdone, and it struck us that the reply of the Hon. Dewan Bahadur Rajagopal Acharya, to the suggestion of a non-official member at a recent meeting of the Madras Legislative Council, that they looked forward to having something better than figure-heads of presidents in Madras municipalities, showed a true appreciation of the Bombay system. As Mr. Rajagopal Acharya is now a member of Government, probably in charge of municipal and local boards, we may hope that the reforms will not be mere repetitions of the Bombay arrangement. For the rest, we would reinforce his Excellency's exhortation to Indians to throw themselves heartily into the labours of local self-government, by reference to the large part played by the Zemstovs in making the late beneficent Russian revolution, the pacific and comparative bloodless transition that it has been from autocracy to democracy. Even here, however, Lord Pentland did his best to prevent excessive expectations by impressing on his Council the hackneyed formula that "the development of this side of local self-government, like all other developments, if it is to be a healthy and a permanent advance, must inevitably be by stages." We hope his Excellency and all others of his way of thinking will understand that what Indians want is advance. They are taught by their religion and philosophy that all phenomenal existence is transient, and that permanence is the attribute of God alone. And as for its being healthy, it is only valetudinarians who are always asking what the effect of every movement will be on their health. Let us, therefore, we say, have some real advance, never mind if it is impermanent or even a little unhealthy. The preposition of these two illusory adjectives before the word "advance" has, in Indian political parlance, often the effect of inverting its usual meaning.

From local self-government, his Excellency passed on to graver issues. Lord Pentland told his Council that it was aware that since the beginning of the war an active agitation had been initiated throughout India, having for its purpose the advocacy of the grant of responsible self-government at the close of the war which, it is assumed, means at a very early date. His Excellency was good enough to concede that there was "an awakening sense of responsibility and a gradual but steadily increasing fitness of Indians to take part in the administration of Indian affairs." But the reforms suitable to this awakening, in his opinion, represent only a small and minor portion of the demands now put forward, not even, as we saw above, more than a homeopathic dose of local self-government. The advocacy referred to above is, therefore, likely to create expectations which are doomed to "disappointment and humiliation." The disappointment and humiliation would give rise to a reaction which might be embarrassing to Government; and to prevent such embarrassment, his Excellency intimated, his Government would be forced to take action for which he bespoke the support of his Council. We are not sure, although Lord Pentland named only Home Rule, that he had not in mind the memorandum of the nineteen members of the Indian Legislative Council and the Congress-Moslem League scheme. Nobody expects that any of them is going to be adopted wholesale by the Secretary of State and the British Parliament; and Indian public men are aware that political demands are seldom conceded completely. They know that Irish Home Rule has been agitated for fifty years, and that even in England political reforms are not conceded as soon as asked. It is, therefore, absurd to think that concessions which fall short of the demand, must create a situation so dangerous that Government should stifle the agitation in the bud. Of course, if Lord Pentland's Government are resolved to adopt repressive measures, this excuse will serve as well as any other. We think that, by the adoption of this highly imaginative line of argument, Lord Pentland has embarrassed the Secretary of State more than the Indian advocates of responsible self-government, as he calls it. He has sought to create by anticipation the disappointment which, he thinks, is likely to be created by any reforms that may be conceded, As a matter of fact, we are not at all sure that the concessions, whatever they may be, will fall so far short of the expectations of the Indian public as Lord Pentland suggested they should. The speeches of the Secretary of State and others on recent occasions forbid the fear. Sir James Meston's remarks at the Guildhall are especially in point. But it is not only, or chiefly, these pronouncements that sustain us in our hope. As General Smuts put it in one of his recent speeches in England, the spirit of freedom is on the wing, and a new creative force is remoulding men's thoughts. We cannot help admiring the intrepidity with which Lord Pentland has come forward to do battle with the Time-spirit, but of the issue of such an unequal combat, no one can be in doubt. A great Scotchman many years ago concluded his rectoral address to the students of a great University with the memorable words: "I bid you hope." Lord Pentland, who is also a Scotchman sharing the noble tradition of his native land, gives us another message. "Hope not lest ye despair," he proclaims, and if we do not cease from hope, he threatens us with pains and penalties. But, with all respect to his lordship, we simply dare not cease to hope. Hope is about the only thing left to depressed nations like ours. If that goes, all else goes by the board. India knows how to suffer, and true to our tradition we shall suffer patiently any action which his Excellency's Government may take to punish us for cherishing hope. But we must continue to hope, or die. We may as well fall beneath his Excellency's sword, as die bereft of the hope that bids us live and aspire under British rule.

FISHING EXPERIMENT IN MADRAS COAST.

THE MALABAR METHOD TO BE DEMONSTRATED.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
CALICUT, June 1.

Sir Frederick Nicholson, Honorary Director, Madras Fisheries Department, and his Personal Assistant Mr. V. V. Govindan, are about to inaugurate an interesting experiment by taking over a couple of Malabar fishing boats to the Madras coast in order to demonstrate to the fishing community the methods pursued on the Malabar coast. The boats will be worked together, crews numbering sixteen in all, using large dragnets with which large hauls are possible in good seasons. The railway authorities are sending down trucks for the railage of the boats which will be sent to Madras almost immediately.

KARACHI, June 2.

The movement for the establishment of a second grade college at Hyderabad, Sind, has been revived through the interest taken in it by Prof. H. L. Chablani, M.A., of the Jodhpur College and several meetings of leading citizens have been held from time to time and a provisional committee appointed with Prof. H. L. Chablani as Secretary. The Metharam Dharmadas Trust has given Rs. 12,000 and the Hon. Rai Bahadur Dewan Teckchand Udhavdas and the Hon. Mr. Bhurgri have given Rs. 2,000 each. The members of the Provisional Committee have altogether given Rs. 10,000 and are issuing an appeal for funds from the residents of Sind. They have also received offers for building, library and laboratory funds. The college is to be run on lines similar to the Fergusson College, Poona. Rai Bahadur Bulchand Dayaram is to be Honorary Principal and it is expected that the college will be opened next June.

A notification issued in the Burma Gazette of June 2, in which the Lieutenant-Governor regrets to record the death on the 17th May from wounds received of Second-Lieutenant N. Downie, I.A.R.O. The notification says that Mr. Downie first arrived in Burma in December 1915 and took early opportunity to volunteer for military service. The Burma Commission has to mourn the loss of a promising and gallant young officer who gave his life for his country.

RAISING OF FEES IN GUJARAT COLLEGE

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE CHRONICLE."

Sir,—The Sunday issue of "Prajabandhu," a local paper, publishes a notice from the Principal of the Gujarat College, to the following effect. The fees of this College are raised to Rs. 44-8-0 from Rs. 34-8-0. The increased amount of fees will be charged from all new students, the old students being exempted—the Principal knows the reason. When the College was given to the Government by the College Board, there was as it is reported an understanding between the parties that the fees will not be raised in future, but within four years this moral binding is broken and the fees are increased. A new difficulty has been thus thrown in the path of the poor students. The cost of living, the increase in fees, the limited admissions in the College, all these stand in the path of a student, who being himself poor, desires to get higher education.—Yours, etc.,

WOMAN WHO FOOLED RICH MEN.

HER MATRIMONIAL 'ADS."

"A danger to society" was the description applied by the Official Receiver at Bradford County Court in mail week to a debtor named Hannah M. Donaldson, wife of a master printer of Haslingden, Lancashire.

Extraordinary disclosures were made in the course of Mrs. Donaldson's examination in bankruptcy. Her husband had got into difficulties through extravagant living due to his wife's statements about an income under her grandfather's will. It was a bogus income, and the husband had since gone to America.

Among debtor's other exploits was the insertion of alluring advertisements in the matrimonial newspapers. She had got into correspondence with gentlemen all over the country. On the strength of a fictitious private income and prospects she had borrowed considerable sums of money on promises of marriage, and several men had been brought to bankruptcy.

She had acted as private secretary to one Yorkshire gentleman, taken proceedings for breach of promise against another, had played the confidence trick on several, and promised others great things after marriage. She had obtained an allowance of £150 a year from one gentleman, and there were piles of letters and correspondence from men to whom debtor had been making love.

BOMBAY CHRONICLE.
Monday, June 4, 1917.

THE NEW ERA IN EDUCATION.

On Thursday, April 19, Mr. Fisher, the President of the Board of Education, introduced and explained his first Education Estimates in the House of Commons. Reuter duly informed us of the widespread approval accorded to Mr. Fisher's proposals and the speech in which they were presented in the Commons. We have now received the full text of Mr. Fisher's speech as well as the Press criticisms which it evoked. An examination of the new educational scheme and the comments thereon is not without its interest for those concerned about the educational shortcomings and needs of this country. Mr. Fisher's proposals mark a new epoch in the educational history of England. Mr. Fisher has been aptly described as the first Education Minister England has had for many years, to whom his office was not merely a stepping-stone to the more tempting prizes of a political career, and whose conception of education extended beyond the delimitation of the elementary school between the sects. As one critic says, he made a statement purely on educational policy with not a single word about the religious question. "What a difference and what an advance!"—was the cry of admiration that, according to the Parliamentary correspondent of the "Manchester Guardian," broke from Mr. McKenna's lips at the close of Mr. Fisher's speech. But when before has a distinguished scholar, an experienced teacher, and a man of liberal understanding been selected to make good the admitted defects of England's education system? The exigencies and the revelations of the war, too, created an occasion when a speech by the President of the Board of Education on the Estimates of his Department was awaited with an eagerness not displayed for very many years. Mr. Fisher admirably rose to the occasion. Not that the reforms which Mr. Fisher adumbrated were many or exhaustive. In fact, they were described by the Minister of Education himself as being only in the nature of a first instalment. The deficiencies in education in England are many and the remedial measures necessary are also correspondingly numerous. In order to ensure substantial improvement more comprehensive measures and a more liberal scale of expenditure than were foreshadowed by Mr. Fisher are called for. The importance of Mr. Fisher's speech, however, lies more in its promise than in the actual reforms it suggests. It lies in the fact that Mr. Fisher stands for a new order, a revived and more practical faith in the true aim of education as helping every citizen to attain the fullest measure of self-realization, and, above all, for a new determination to realise that faith. That is a point which should not be lost sight of. For, as the "Westminster Gazette" says, it would otherwise be a grim commentary on present events that it should require eloquence and persuasion to commend to the House of Commons an addition to the Education Estimates for a year of £3,829,048—a sum little more than one-half the expenditure in one day on the war.

Mr. Fisher himself was perfectly conscious of this fact. Not the least remarkable passage in his speech was that in which with playful sarcasm he enumerated the various items of national expenditure by way of contrast with the annual outlay of £40,000,000 from all sources on education. "A large sum"—he admitted. But

It is eight times the value of our annual importation of oranges and bananas. (Laughter.) It is four times the value of the estimated savings of the country through the partial substitution of margarine for butter. It is 1 1-3 times the value of our annual expenditure on tobacco, and it is almost one-fourth the value of our expenditure on alcohol. (Hear, hear.)

"The question," he urged with earnestness, "is not whether we can afford to spend so much money on education, but whether we can afford not to spend it,"—a pointed plea for educational expenditure which is not without its application, we may add, nearer home. We have heard of responsible persons whose anxiety for short-sighted economy has been known to outrun their sympathy for the educational needs of the people. While alive to some of the virtues of the present system, Mr. Fisher was most concerned to show its defects and to suggest remedies either for immediate or gradual adoption. In the first category, he included the raising of the salaries and improvement of the status of teachers. The average pay of the teacher, he said, was far too low. "An anxious and depressed teacher is bad; a bitter teacher is a social danger." The House was, therefore, asked to sanction an additional grant of £3,450,000 for elementary education. The local authorities were to be asked to conform to a schedule of minimum salaries for certificated and uncertificated teachers, the grants to be paid preferably to poorer districts, more to a generous than a niggardly education authority, and more to such authorities as put their trust in flesh and blood rather than in bricks and mortar. Other reforms were the organisation of a new system of day continuation classes, and the provision of "a full period of instruction for every boy and girl up to the age of 14 years" with a view to remedy the present incompleteness of education. "We do not want to waste a single child," said Mr. Fisher. "We desire that every child in this country should receive the form of education most adapted to put its qualities to the highest use." These were the most important of Mr. Fisher's ideas. For some of these and others legislation would be required which Mr. Fisher promised to introduce shortly.

While an obvious objection to Mr. Fisher's scheme is that it does not go far enough, it has to be recognised that a great beginning has been made. The importance of this beginning is reflected in the comments of the Press. The "Daily News," which heads its article "A Good Start," writes:

The experience of the last two years has taught us many things, but no teaching has gone deeper than that in regard to the importance of education, rightly understood. We have seen, on the one hand, how education, perverted to merely material ends and made the instrument of autocratic and military power, may wither the soul of a nation and become a peril to the world. But we have learned, on the other hand, that education is also the instrument of liberty and that in developing the moral resources of the State it can serve the interests of democracy not less effectually than it can serve those of despotic militarism.

The "Daily Chronicle," while strongly commenting on the absence of many urgent reforms, says,

Nevertheless the wind of progress animates the details of the new scale; and it blew most invigoratingly throughout Mr. Fisher's really admirable speech. The war has, as he justly argued, done a good deal to illustrate the value of our past national education; but it has also brought home to the nation more cogently perhaps than ever before the absolute necessity of extending and improving it up to the point when the nation can really be regarded as making the best of its living human assets. That point is a very long way off; there is a steep hill to climb; but it is something that our feet are leaving the valley and taking the upward path.

"The Times" strikes a similar note. While conceding that Mr. Fisher will have done something towards realizing the ideal he has set before himself by obtaining an additional grant of four millions in the Estimates of his Department, the journal points out:

But we are spending a great deal more every day on the war, or, in other words, on the pursuit of freedom for the individual. The cause for which hundreds are laying down their lives every day is the cause for which every friend of education pleads—the right of every individual to make the most of his life and of his innate faculties and powers. So long as child labour is legal, and so long as the majority of our sons and daughters get no education whatever after the age of thirteen, we are very far from attaining this ideal. Mr. Fisher has laid his foundations well, and he promises a stately building to be completed in a few years' time. Educationists are accustomed to taking the long view, and they are urged to take it once again. After reading Mr. Fisher's speech, they will do so with rising hopes of entering the Promised Land; but we cannot deny that the vision is more distant than they had been led to expect.

The comments of the "Manchester Guardian" are especially noteworthy:

The essential thing, which dictates the rest, is to determine the aim of education. Do we seek to train up mechanics and agricultural labourers, servants and rulers, or do we seek to train up citizens each with a personality of his own which he reveals through his craft and in the fellowship of society? Hitherto we have not faced this question boldly, though we have stumbled along the road which one answer to it, the conception (of education as building up "character" too narrowly and conventionally seen), marked out. Now we must face it and take our decision consciously, and Mr. Fisher means that, so far as his influence goes, the decision [illegible] be the right one.

The application of all this to Indian conditions and requirements lies in the question whether the lessons of the war, which have not been lost upon even more progressive countries, will be taken to heart by the Government.

"WHY SHOULD WE HESITATE?"

The "Investors' Review" (28th April) thus discourses on the recent orations to the Indian Representatives at the late Imperial War Conference:—

"Sweet words are now raining upon India, and we trust foreshadow generous deeds. It was undoubtedly a sign of changed sentiments, and prompted the indulgence in hopes hitherto baulked, to find the Indian delegates to the Imperial War Cabinet guests of the Empire Parliamentary Association at the House of Commons. . . . Mr. Chamberlain, the Indian Secretary, rose to the occasion, and uttered what for him must be considered glowink testimonies to the patient loyalty of the ruling princes of India, and, we hope, although it is not reported, to that of the Indian peoples. But for the unique character and for the composition of the assemblage we, however, would have had little to say, had not the Maharaja of Bikaner, in acknowledging the toast, made a speech that our rulers would do well to ponder, and if possible, take warning by. It was the speech of a statesman, moderate in tone and yet sufficiently emphatic in its indications of what India demanded, to deserve more than a passing notice. His Highness admitted that there was unrest and sedition in India, but claimed that the seditionists were an insignificant portion of the people, and that the millions of its vast population were 'loyal to the core.' Their unrest sprung from a legitimate desire for political progress. He told them also that if the people of India were given a greater voice and power in directions in which they have shown their fitness, we should have much less of 'unrest, agitation, and irresponsible criticism.' That is the truth, and there can be no question that India must be endowed with o larger measure of self-government, else the reward for her devotion and loyalty now will be one more betrayal. As the Maharaja impressively pointed out, the ruling princes of India are in accord with the people in making the demand. So far from being alarmed at the political progress of India, they rejoice in it. At least 10 per cent. of the more important states already have representative self-government, and every year the constitutional government is being extended. Though 'autocrats,' the princes of India are marching with the times, and if they are of that mind, becoming trustful of their people, why should we hesitate?"

We put the same question, why does the Government hesitate unless it is still "distrustful" of the people?

Notes of the Day.

Socialists and the War.

The cables sent by Reuter in reference to the proposed Socialists' World Congress, and the attitude of the British Government and of the British Socialists to the same are curiously redundant, repetitive and withal inconclusive. The "authoritative statement," however, which has been issued with regard to the position of the Labour Executive appears to be fairly coherent. In defining the Labour attitude to the Stockholm Conference, the statement says that the party has not relaxed its determination not to join the International Conference, as suggested by the Dutch-Scandinavian Committee, but is prepared to declare its war aims informally to the Stockholm Socialists. This will be done by the British Labour Delegation when they pass through Stockholm en route to Russia.

A Poona Example.

We had occasion the other day to refer to the welcome initiative taken by the Poona Municipality by passing a resolution demanding that all local bodies should be wholly elective. An opportunity is to be offered to the Bombay Corporation,—the premier municipality in the country,—to follow the example thus set. At the meeting of the Corporation to be held on Monday next, Dr. Sukhia will move a resolution on the subject. Dr. Sukhia proposes that the Corporation should record its "deliberate and strong opinion" that the time has arrived when the principle should be recognised that "all members of all local self-governing bodies should be elected by the people wherever elective bodies would not be impracticable". And that "it must be the rule rather than the exception that local self-governing bodies should be wholly elective." As he rightly says these are "the first principles of local self-government enunciated in the Despatches and Resolutions of the Local and Imperial Governments."

Why Compromise?

To make a recognition a reality, he will also move for the appointment of a committee to draw up a representation to be placed before the Corporation at an early date for submission to Government requesting them to amend the Bombay Municipal Act so as to grant the Corporation the privilege of having all or at least four-fifths of the members elected by the ratepayers and to do away with the anomaly of a separate Justices election. For our part, we do not see why any compromise as to the retention of the obsolete and discredited system of nomination should be accepted—especially in regard to a progressive city like Bombay. We trust that the Bombay Corporation will not be above following the example of the smaller Municipality of Poona which has boldly discarded the idea of compromise. The moral effect of the Bombay Corporation demanding a wholly elective constitution will be great in giving a stimulus to the development of local self-government throughout the country.

A University for Hyderabad.

In proportion to its wealth and importance the Hyderabad State has continued to remain backward educationally. During the reign of the present Nizam, however, great strides, have been made and it is gratifying to learn that his Highness has revived the idea, which was nourished for a time some years ago, of a University for his State. A Press Note has been issued conveying the Nizam's sanction to the formation of a University for Hyderabad, from which the following extract will be read with interest:

"That such a University be established as would impart modern and ancient Western and Eastern knowledge in such manner that the defect in the present system of education will be removed and the full benefit be derived from ancient and modern methods of physical, intellectual and spiritual education, and with the spread of education the students' moral improvement be kept in view, and, on the other hand, higher research should also be carried out. The main object of this University should be that Urdu should be the means of imparting higher education, but at the same time English should be one of the compulsory languages. Consequently, I have the greatest pleasure in sanctioning, in accordance with the proposal, in commemoration of my accession to the throne ("gadi"), that arrangements be made for establishing a University for my Dominions at Hyderabad and that the University be called Usmania University."

Official and Personal.

Sir Satyendra will be entertained by the citizens of Calcutta at a garden party to-day. He will take charge of the Executive Council membership on Tuesday from Nawab Sir Syed Shamsulhuda and will proceed to Darjeeling on the same evening. It is understood Nawab Shamsulhuda will take his seat on the High Court bench immediately after he hands over the charge.

Mr. Justice Sir D. H. R. Twomey has been appointed Chief Judge, Chief Court, Lower Burma, vice Sir Charles Fox retiring.

SIR JAMES MESTON CONGRATULATED.

PRESENTATION OF ADDRESS AT NAINITAL.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
NAINITAL, June 2.

The following address to Sir James Meston on his arrival, to-day, was read by Mr. J. S. Campbell of the Board of Revenue:—

"I have been asked to explain that your friends and admires, who have collected to-day to welcome you upon your return to Naini Tal, are here not only in recognition of your position as the representative of his Majesty the King-Emperor in the United Provinces but in acknowledgment of the services that you personally have recently rendered to the British Empire. When we heard that you had been selected as one of the three representatives of India at the great War Cabinet we felt that the choice was an admirable one and the reports that have since reached India of the successess of the meetings in England of that Cabinet have assured us that our anticipations were correct and that your return to us after having performed most estimable services to the Empire in general and India in particular, services which will be more fully recognised when the resolutions of the Cabinet are gradually brought into effect. The general wish displayed to bind closer the ties of British brotherhood combined with the feelings of goodwill and conciliation on the part of all the representatives at the Cabinet should be a great step gained by the improved relations in this direction. All lovers of this country are under a deep debt of gratitude to you and pour colleagues for your recent brilliant work upon which we congratulate you.

ISLINGTON REPORT.

DR. SAPRU'S REPRESENTATION.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
ALLAHABAD, June 3.

The Hon. Dr. Tej Bahadur Sapru, President, United Provinces Congress Committee, has just submitted a representation on the report of the Royal Commission on Public Services in India indicating broad principles on which the Public Services should be recruited. He says: "Apart from the economic aspect of the problem it has important moral and political bearing and with the growth of national solidarity people have in ever increasing measure realised the necessity of Indianising the administration of the land as far as possible, along with the need for the early adjustment of political power in the constitution of the Government of India." Dr. Sapru further says, "the report is obsolete, four years and six months having intervened between the appointment of the Commission and the publication of the report; in the meanwhile India has been undergoing changes with startling rapidity. National outlook has been greatly transformed. The Commissioners have failed to take into account the changed angle of vision in India caused by the war. The Titanic struggle for natural freedom and independence has quickened the pace of her political aspirations, when nations are marching forward with resounding tread not from precedent to precedent but by casting all precedents to winds and creating fresh ones for refashioning the world. After the war the reforms proposed by the Commission cease to have much value. As the new forces come into play the proposals under discussion lose almost all value." Dr Sapru's committee express their emphatic dissent from the view that the maintenance of British rule in India demands the perpetuation of alien service and impress on the Governmnt that, as a rule, indegenious agency must be employed and only in exceptional cases should a foreigner be recruited and protests against the practice of reserving certain posts for the Indian Civil Service and generally agree with the proposals of Mr. Abdur Rahim.

BADGE OF COMPANIONSHIPS.

TO BE WORN SUSPENDED FROM NECK

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)
LONDON, June 2.
Recd. 7-30 a.m., June 3.

The "London Gazette" says the King commands that the Badge of Companionships of the Orders of Bath, Star of India, St. Michael and St. George and Indian Empire, shall in future be worn suspended by a ribbon from the neck. Members of this class of the four Orders will, while retaining the title of Companions, be given precedence as Commanders according to the seniority of Order.

FREQUENT SUCCESSFUL COUPS DE MAIN.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

PARIS, June 2.
Recd. 7-30 a.m., June 3.

It is semi-officially stated that persistent artillery duel on the British front and frequent successful British coups de main are a prelude to resumption of the battle.

ARTILLERY ACTIVITY NEAR BULLECOURT AND VIMY.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

LONDON, June 2.
Recd. 7-30 a.m., June 3.

A British communiqué says the enemy artillery was active last night against our positions in the neighbourhood of Bullecourt and Vimy village. There is nothing of interest to report.

AIR RAID ON AERODROME AT ST. DENIS WESTREM.

FURTHER ATTACKS ON GERMAN BASES

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

LONDON, June 2.
Recd. 7-30 a.m., June 3.

The Admiralty announces that we made an aeroplane attack on the enemy aerodrome at St. Denis Westrem yesterday morning.

Naval aeroplanes and seaplanes attacked the German bases last night at Zeebrugge, Ostend and Bruges and dropped several tons of explosives.

ENEMY REPULSED SOUTH OF OPPY.

VALUABLE WORK BY BRITISH AEROPLANS.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

LONDON, June 2.
Recd. 1 p.m., June 3.

A British communiqué says, we repulsed an enemy party last night southward of Oppy. There was reciprocal cannonading all day at different points of the front.

Our aeroplanes accomplished much valuable work yesterday. One German machine was brought down and six others were driven down out of control. Three of ours are missing.

SUBMARINES CANNOT STARVE ENGLAND.

ISSUE OF "VOSSISCH ZEITUNG" PUBLISHING LETTER CONFISCATED.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

LAHORE, June 2.

A "Civil and Military Gazette's" special cable says:—

The German Government has confiscated the issue of the "Vossische Zeitung" in which Captain Persius wrote that those believing that the submarines can starve England to her knees must be disappointed.

MADRAS GARDENERS CORPS.

CAPT.-KIRWAN'S LETTER FROM MESOPOTAMIA.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

MADRAS, June 2.

In the course of a letter, Captain L. E. Kirwan, Commandant, Madras Gardeners Corps, Mesopotamia, says:—This is to tell you our progress since we left the steamer at the end of April. We had a busy day. We loaded all our stuff on to a river barge in the morning and put men on, when we were towed up the river. Here we unloaded on to the road. Then carts came and we loaded them up, travelled about half a mile to this camp and unloaded again. Here we soon settled down and I have since had to provide about a 100 a day for local works.

FIERCE FIGHTING ON CARSO.

ATTACK AGAINST HILL 652 REPULSED.

SURPRISE ATTACK NEAR CASTAGNAVIZZA.

EXTENSIVE RAID BY ITALIAN AEROPLANES.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

LONDON, June 2.
Recd. 7-30 a.m., June 3.

An Italian communiqué says, there was heavier cannonading northwards and eastwards of Gorizia, in the northern sector of the Carso and at Dossofaiti.

We repulsed an attack at night on Thursday against Hill 652 in the Vodice area. Two enemy attacks southwards of Crazigna and northwards of Tivoli were unsuccessful. We made a surprise attack the same night southwards of Castagnavizza and advanced our line four hundred metres on a two kilometres' front.

Our aeroplanes bombed the military works, aviation camps, dumps and railway junctions from Duina to Opicina, north-eastward of Trieste. All returned safely.

ITALIANS CAPTURE TWO TUNNELS.

ON TRIESTE RAILWAY.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

LAHORE, June 2.

A "Civil and Military Gazette's" special cable says:—

The Italians on Thursday captured two tunnels on the Trieste railway used as shelters for troops and ammunition. They found men chained to machine guns. The adoption of these Germans methods had hitherto not been established against the Austrians. It is attributed to the fact that the forces on the southern Carso are largely Roumanians.

AUSTRIAN LACK OF RESERVES

DIVISIONS REMAIN 50 PER CENT. UNDER STRENGTH.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

LAHORE, June 2.

A "Civil and Military Gazette's" special cable says:—

A Rome wireless message says it is reported hat the Austrian command proposed to withdraw ten divisions from the Italian front for the purpose of reforming them. The staff protested on account of lakh of reserves and divisions remain in line 50 per cent. under strength.

HUN'S TREATMENT OF PRISONERS.

LIES TO CONCEAL CRUELTY.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

ALLAHABAD, June 3.

A "Pioneer's" special cable says:—

An official Australian correspondent at the front states that the Germans repeating the old lie about the employment of German prisoners in the danger zone have inflicted a punitive treatment on nearly a thousand Australians who were cut off after the first attack on Bullecourt. Two who have escaped report that after confinement in rooms, fifty feet by twenty, 110 men in each, were supplied only with one slice of bread and some fermented marigolds, two cups of coffee as the day's rations. They were compelled to work on an ammunition dump exposed to the British fire. They were so illfed that they were glad to eat dandelions and nettles. The men were still there when these two escaped.

REMOVING RAILS IN CANADA.

MR. COCHRANE ON NEED OF STANDARDIZATION.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

OTTAWA, June 2.
Recd. 3-15 p.m., June 3.

Mr. Cochrane, Minister of Railways, is being criticised for removing rails from the national trans-continental railways to send to France. It is alleged that he is thus degrading the railways which were built by the Liberal Government. Mr. Cochrane has replied that rails are necessary to standardise with those already sent. He added, "I would tear up the whole trans-continental system, yes, and every other railway in Canada, to win the war."

LIVELY CANNONADING ON FRENCH FRONT.

OVER 52,000 CAPTURED SINCE APRIL 16.

ENORMOUS QUANTITY OF MATERIAL TAKEN.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

LONDON, June 2.
Recd. 1 p.m., June 3.

A French communiqué says, there has been lively cannonading at Laffaux, Hurtebise and Craonne. Since 16th April the French and British have captured over 52,000 Germans, including 1,000 officers, also an enormous quantity of material which includes 446 heavy and field guns, 1,000 machine guns and numerous trench guns.

FRENCH MINISTER AT JASSY

ENTHUSIASTIC RECEPTION.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

JASSY, June 2.
Recd. 7-30 a.m., June 3.

The French Minister, M. Thomas, has arrived here from Russia. He was given an enthusiastic reception.

"PEACE CAN ONLY BE RESULT OF VICTORY."

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

PARIS, June 2.
Recd. 7-30 a.m., June 3.

M. Ribot was loudly cheered when he said that one party could not be allowed to usurp the place of the Government and that the Government alone was entitled to speak in the name of France. He said, "Can we converse with the enemies who have never disavowed their country's crimes at an hour when a part of France is still occupied, and when France needs to collect all her energies for the final phase of the war? No, we cannot. Peace can only be the result of victory." (Prolonged cheers.)

M. Ribot concluded by paying a tribute to the patriotism of the socialists and their services to the country. He was convinced that Russia would appreciate the attitude of the French Government, but it was impossible to allow public opinion to be disturbed by premature peace rumours.

"TO PROSECUTE WAR TO VICTORY."

STATEMENT ON ATTITUDE OF LABOUR EXECUTIVE.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

LONDON, June 2.
Recd. 3-15 p.m., June 3.

An authoritative statement has been issued with regard to the attitude of the Labour Executive to the Stockholm Conference. It says that the party has not reversed its decision not to enter the international conference as proposed by the Dutch-Scandinavian Committee, but it is willing to state its war aims to M. Brantting and other socialists in Stockholm when the British Labour delegation is passing through Stockholm on the way to Petrograd.

The Executive resents the insinuation that anything its representatives may say or do in Stockholm will compromise the British cause as they have never swerved from the determination to prosecute the war to victory. They consider that the air will be cleared by the presentation of views of the vast majority of British workers in view of the visit to Stockholm of Mr. Ramsay Macdonald and other extremists and the Fabian, Mr. Julius West.

"The Times" sums up the newspaper comments on the grant of British permits by saying that the proposal for a conference at Stockholm or elsewhere can be viewed without apprehension so long as it is really representative because it is convinced the nation is determined to resist all attempts to manoeuvre an inconclusive peace.

JAPANESE CONSUL FOR EGYPT.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

CAIRO, June 3.
Recd. 7-55 p.m., June 3.

It is understood that Japan has decided to appoint a consul for Egypt owing to the increase in Japan's commercial interests in Egypt.

GERMANY'S WAR AIMS.

CHANCELLOR'S STATEMENT.

OUTCOME OF FAILURE TO BRIBE RUSSIA.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

ALLAHABAD, June 3.

The "Pioneer's" special cable says.—

Herr von Bethmann-Hollweg's organ the "Norddeutscher Zeitung," declares with his authority that Germany wishes no increase of territory nor political or economical power. She merely wishes to defend her own territory and secure guarantees for future defence and self-protection. These guarantees are supposed to include some sort of military control of Belgium.

The "Daily Express" Amsterdam correspondent in sending the foregoing describes it as the direct outcome of the failure to bribe Russia into making a separate peace and foretells that it will expose both the Chancellor and the Kaiser to violent attacks by pan-Germans and will increase party feud in Germany to the point of chaos.

The same correspondent quotes the "Berliner Neueste Nachrichten" as saying that the Chancellor is worried by the probable effects on the public mind of the crushing financial burdens resulting from the war and is anxious to protect the crown from any possibility of widespread discontent, he cannot alone take the responsibility for the coming peace. He is endeavouring to share it by inducing the party leaders in the Reichstag to accept under-secretaryships, but they are unwilling to accept responsibility without power.

GERMAN ATTEMPTS TO STAVE OFF RUSSIAN OFFENSIVE.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

LAHORE, June 2.

A "Civil and Military Gazette's" special cable says:—

The Hague correspondent of the "Daily Mail" says that many German troops and naval guns have recently been sent eastward in the hope of staving off a Russian offensive. As a means to this end peace talk has apparently been abandoned.

HUN SUBMARINE FAILURE.

IMPROVED CONDITIONS OF RUSSIAN ARMY.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

SIMLA, June 3.

The following telegram has been received by the Viceroy from the Secretary of State, dated the 1st June:—

With the cessation of the rainy season in East Africa, military activity has been resumed. Scattered enemy forces have been raiding native settlements, terrorising the inhabitants and looting food supplies. The British and the Belgians pursuing one of two main raiding parties captured its commander.

The returns of losses from submarines and mines again show improvement. There were fewer losses and more sailings and arrivals and the number of ships using British ports being greater than at any time since the enemy submarine activity was intensified and sinkings in May being considerably less than the sinkings in April. During the last week 2,719 vessels of all nationalities arrived at and 2,768 sailed from the British ports. 18 British merchant vessels over and only one under 1,800 tons were sunk.

There are signs that the condition of Russian army is improving under the influence of M. Kerensky, the new Minister of War, supported by M. Thomas French, Socialist, Minister of Munitions, both of whom being visiting the front.

M. Kerensky is making appeals to troops and the tide in the army is turning in favour of discipline and efforts.

LABOUR V. COMMERCE.

RUSSIAN COMMERCE MEMBER RESIGNS

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

PETROGRAD, June 2.
Recd. 3-15 p.m., June 3.

Mr. Henderson has arrived here.

The Minister of Commerce, M. Konavaloff, has resigned owing to differences with the Minister of Labour, M. Skoboloff, regarding the economic and financial measures necessary in the present crisis.

DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

LONDON, June 2.
Recd. 1 a.m., June 4.

Nine Chinese provinces have now revolted. Honan, Chekiang, Fukin and the Military Governor of Mukden have declared their independence, besides those already mentioned.

CAPT. LEEF ROBINSON.

REMOVED TO FREIBURG.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

LONDON, June 3.
Recd. 7-55 p.m., June 3.

Captain Leef Robinson ha sbeen removed to Freiburg as reprisal against further allied air raids.

STOCKHOLM CONFERENCE.

"RIGGED BY GERMANY FOR GERMAN OBJECTS."

(ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

ALLAHABAD, June 3.

A "Pioneer" special cable says:—

The socialist Mr. Hyndman, opposes the Stockholm Conference which he describes as rigged by Germany for German objects.

"DANGER TO FRENCH MORAL."

GOVERNMENT CALLED ON TO DISAVOW DELEGATES.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

ALLAHABAD, June 3.

A "Pioneer" special cable says:—

The Stockholm Conference has become the chief theme of the Paris press which declares that the whole adventure constitutes a danger to French moral. The leading papers call upon the Government to disavow the delegates who wish to attend.

RUSSIAN COMMUNIQUE.

WORK OF THE BLACK SEA FLEET.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAM.)

LONDON, June 3.
Recd. 7-55 p.m., June 3.

A Russian communiqué says, the Black Sea Fleet while cruising along Anatolian coast on the 29th May destroyed munition depots, barracks, factories and other establishments at Shekirogly, Samsun, Ovenie and Ordeh and destroyed one hundred and forty-seven sailing ships laden with supplies and brought two schooners to Trebizond.

OCCUPATION OF THESSALY ESSENTIAL.

KING CONSTANTINE'S VIEW.

LAHORE, June 2.

A "Civil and Military Gazette's" special cable says:—

The correspondent of the "Times" in Syria says the occupation of Thessaly is considered here esential. The remark is attributed to King Constantine that he only needed the crops and two to three month's delay and the situation in the Balkans might change.

C-IN-C'S APPEAL.

FOR LOAN OF BINOCULARS.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

SIMLA, June 2.

The Commander-in-Chief makes an appeal to private individuals who may have suitable binoculars in their possession to give them on loan to the Munitions Boards for issue to officers, who cannot otherwise obtain a pair. The names of all persons who send in binoculars on loan will be registered with a view to return of their property after the war.

BEHAR LABOUR QUESTION.

A FACTORY MANAGER'S SUGGESTION.

TO REMOVE MR. GANDHI FROM CHAMPARAN.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
ALLAHABAD, June 3.

The "Pioneer" publishes a letter from Mr. Irwin, manager of a factory in Motihari giving the history of Mr. Gandhi's recent proceedings in Behar. After describing a few incidents Mr. Irwin says, 'Naturally his (Mr. Gandhi's) arrival in Bettiah Sub-division was objected to by both planters and officials, and the former sent a deputation to Ranchi to try to get Government to put an end to, or at any rate, keep under some control, Mr. Gandhi's activities. This resulted in local officials and Mr. Gandhi being summoned by wire to attend a conference in Bankipore which ended in Mr. Gandhi's being permitted to return and continue his doings. Now, more uncontrolled than ever and clothed to raiyat's mind in garments of recognition and approval by Government, he visited a village in Dhakrahu factory Dihat the raiyats of which, in his presence and before the D.S.O. and factory manager, foully abused in Hindustani the factory head servant, and while Mr. Gandhi was still in the neighbourhood, but not actually within sight, assaulted and grossly maltreated a most respectable old man who, too aged and infirm to walk had come in a cart to make a statement in the factory's favour, and finally two days or so later the factory office was set fire to and burned down."

The writer of this letter says he is prepared to believe that Mr. Gandhi is a well-meaning philanthropist and he has been made a cat's paw of by individuals who have engineered the movement. Mr. Irwin's letter concludes thus, "For the protection of the property of the Champaran planters the one, and probably the only one step is essentially necessary and that is the removal of Mr. Gandhi from the district. The extreme forbearance of the planters has so far prevented the outbreak of any very serious disturbances, but unless Government can see its way to protecting them they will unavoidably be forced into taking steps necessary for their own protection."

"NO MORE UM KAISER."

A PROCLAMATION IN "PIDGIN-ENGLISH."

One of those rare, delightful touches of Britain's Imperial policy—a proclamation in "pidgin English"—came into the prosaic proceedings of the Prize Court in mail week when the claim was heard for the condemnation of the German steamship Siar and cargo, seized in the harbour of Tekeriki, New Ireland, in the Bismarck Archipelago.

When New Ireland, was handed over by the Germans a proclamation, which ended with the words "No more um Kaiser. God Save the King," was read to the natives. Counsel read it in court as follows:—

All boys belonginga one place you savvy big master come now; he now fell a master; he strong fella too much; you look, him all ship, stop place; he small fella ship belonging him. Plenty more big fella he stop place, belonga him, now he come here he take all place.

Suppose you work good with this new feller master, he look out good alonga you, he look out you get plenty good feller Kai-Kai; he no fighting black boy alonga nothing. You look him new fella flag; you savvy him?

He belong British (English); he more better than other fellers. . . . Now you give three good feller cheers belongina new feller master.

No more um Kaiser.

God save um King!

The President ordered the condemnation of both the vessel and the cargo.—"Daily Chronicle."

THE G. O. M. OF FLEET ST.

HEARTY AND IN HARNESS AT 80.

Truly one might say of Mr. J. M. Le Sage that his eye was not dimmed nor his strength abated at the prime age of 80, writes a correspondent in the "Daily Chronicle." The Grand Old Man of Fleet-street is a credit to his calling as well as a testimony to the sovereign qualities of work. His step is as light as that of a young man, his complexion as fresh as a girl's, his outlook on life as keen and as joyous as a successful soldier's in the moment of victory. I wondered whether he had any secret. No, there was no secret. He had not won his battles by keeping himself fresh for the morrow. But he had always been moderate both in his eating, and drinking—moderate in everything, I imagine, except work.

The great change that has come over the Press since Mr. Le Sage commenced work upon it, is due to the wide use of the telegraph. During the early days, over which he likes to linger, the telegraph was not an established institution; it was scarcely used. When one wanted reports of happenings one sent them by post and train, and even by special train. The phaeton, or gig, as it was called, often carried the reporter, in quest of news, across the country. And then another great change came when the roller presses were used for printing the paper, instead of the flat-bedded machine. It was in a double sense a "revolution", for the paper had to be passed twice over the type by the old process, and had to be put to bed at unconscionable hours. The leader-writer had to finish his survey of the world by six o'clock at night. Those were the days of long editorials and long descriptions, in both of which the "Telegraph" distinguished itself.

INTERVIEWING A MURDERER.

One of Mr. Le Sage's earliest feats as a special correspondent was to interview a murderer, named Frantz Muller, on board a Cunard liner at Queenstown. The report of his conversation occupied three columns which he carried in person to his paper, which, thereupon, produced a special edition. Then he remembers talks, interesting and even confidential, with celebrities such as Lord Palmerston, whose utterances he had gone to report at Tiverton, and the dethroned Emperor of the French, Napoleon III., whom he met at Brighton. The unhappy sovereign showed great consideration for his young recorder.

These memories mingle with those of well-known journalists who were on the "Telegraph" staff, such as Sir Edwin Arnold—it was Matthew of that name who spoke of the "lions of the 'Telegraph'"—and Bennet Burleigh, whom the veteran manager (then, of course, a young man) found in Egypt, when he was following the British Army as war correspondent and subsequently caused to be appointed to the paper. He was in Paris during the Commune, and seems to have managed to be everywhere when important things were happening. He has travelled in most countries, and thinks, it is the essential education of the journalist.

His temperament does not belie his appearance; it is optimist. He looks for a changed England after the war, an England in which all classes will freely mingle and there will be a better time for everybody. Meanwhile, he says, and the advice is precious: "Don't worry; do your best. If your work is too much for you, change it for something else."

HIDES IN BURMA.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR FINAL PURCHASE.

(Associated Press.)

RANGOON, June 2.

A sub-committee composed of the Chief Collector of Customs and a representative from each of the two hide firms in Rangoon has been appointed by the Hides Department of the Indian Munitions Board to deal with the question of exporting hides from Burma to the United Kingdom subject to the control of the Calcutta office. This is supposed to be the first move on the part of Government towards the final purchase by them of all available hides in Burma.

Good Bye, Painful Corns

When your feet are not right—paining you—corns continually on edge—makes you hate to put your feet down solid, it makes life just about unbearable—you're wrong all over, day in and day out.

One of the simplest yet most effective methods of removing corns is to apply

NYAL'S CORN REMOVER

that's all there is to it—just apply it and don't fuss with bandages.

It relieves all pain, banishes discomforts and removes the corn when you've forgotten you ever had one. There is absolutely no danger of infection—it is thoroughly antiseptic—forms a coating over the corn, softens and relieves the pain following pressure of shoe.

Your Child's Pale Face

. . . . is typical of the majority of European children in India, but is a sure warning to you that his blood is suffering from climatic effects, which, if neglected, are likely to lead to serious consequences.

Far too common is the remark "All European children are pale in the tropics" and the health of children is often ruined by lack of knowledge of Iron 'Jelloids'.

Our message to you is:—"Do not neglect the warning which you see in your child's face!"

Iron 'Jelloids' No. 1. have been produced and introduced into India to enrich your child; so that he may have a strong constitution which will enable him to withstand the trials which the climate has in store for him.

Dr. Andrew Wilson wrote:—"Iron 'Jelloids' constitute the most desirable "treatment for the cure of that common complaint that insidious and weak-"ening condition, no matter from what cause arising, known as Anæmia "or Poorness of Blood."

The Great Tonic for Weakness and Poorness of Blood.
